10 Cents

Up to 3 P. M. I'm a banker. After that I'm a golfer.

The other day on the links, Blackburn of the First National, offered me a Perfecto.

"Thanks!" says I. "But I'll stick to 'Helmars'."

"What's a 'Helmars'?" says he.

"A Turkish cigarette that suits me down to the ground!" says I. "Try one."

"Sure," says he. "Fine!"

The next day he comes along smoking a cigarette.

"Helmars?" says I.

Says he, "Why didn't you tell me before?"

The mildest tobacco for cigarettes is Turkish.

The best tobacco for cigarettes is Turkish.

Don't pay ten cents for anybody's cigarette until you have tried "Helmars," a fascinating, elevating, gentleman's smoke.

TY COBB'S WORK AMAZES

Manager John McGraw Says the Georgian Is a Marvel of Physical Fitness.

BATON ROUGE, La., April 4.—Defeat comes as a staggering blow to every man of high-strung nerves and John McGraw is such a man. The loss of the final game of the series to the Detroit Tigers cut the Giant leader deeply and rankled sore. But McGraw was the first man of all the Giants to lead the wonderful work of Ty Cobb. "Wonderful!" it was, indeed, for, though Veach, with his four hits, drove over several runs, it was the superb work of the only Tytus that cut down many potential base-cleaners for the Giants. Then, too, he got a double, scored a couple of runs and stole a base.

Cobb had not been in uniform this year before, yet he cut loose with everything just as if it were the middle of the season. The only thing he favored the least bit was his arm. He made no effort to get the ball back to the infield at anything like speed.

and thunder in with a perfect "hook" slide.

Cobb Praised by McGraw.

Coming down from Houston on the sleeper Sunday night, McGraw pronounced Cobb the greatest ball player he had seen in many and many a day.

"That man Cobb is a demon," declared John J. "He has the most wonderful knack I ever saw of judging a ball hit to his field. There he was this afternoon, his first time out on the field, catching them as if it were July Fourth. His catch on Burns was a wonder. It robbed George of a triple at least. Then there were his catches on Doyle and Lobert in the first frame. They were wonders, that's all you can say of them."

"The chances that Cobb takes make him the successful player that he is. He works on the nerves of the men he plays against. One never knows what he is thinking about, but realizes that he is keenly alive to every situation. The slightest break will result in a gain for him."

"This constant strain is wearing and has a tendency to make players hurry their play," they time you can get your opponents throwing the ball around you have an advantage."

CITY SERIES TO START

Yankees and Dodgers Play First of Three Games Today.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Fans of Greater New York will have their first opportunity to see major league baseball of the 1916 variety today, when the New York Americans and Brooklyn

Nationals meet in the first of a series of three games at Ebbets Field.

The chances that Cobb takes make him the successful player that he is. He works on the nerves of the men he plays against. One never knows what he is thinking about, but realizes that he is keenly alive to every situation. The slightest break will result in a gain for him."

"This constant strain is wearing and has a tendency to make players hurry their play," they time you can get your opponents throwing the ball around you have an advantage."

MAUPOME LEADS ELLIS.

PITTSBURGH, April 4.—Pierre Maupome, challenger for the three-cushion billiard championship, won the first fifty-point block of the 150-point match last night from Charles Ellis, the title holder, the score being 50 to 25, which gives the Mexican a big advantage in the continuation of the event tonight and tomorrow night. Maupome was in one of his most brilliant moods, executing many difficult shots. Though his best run was only five, Maupome made a high average for the three-cushion game, running out his string in sixty-two innings. In addition to being brilliant in execution, Maupome had the faculty of being able to leave his opponent safe, and Ellis time and again was confronted with positions that were beyond solution. The best run by the title holder was three.

TENPIN TEAMS ARE SCHEDULED IN A. C. B. A. TOURNEY TONIGHT

John J. Donovan Only Bowler From Another City Booked to Roll—Prominent Men Take Part in Opening.

The tenpin teams of the Washington City Tenpin League take the floor tonight in the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association tournament, which opened with so much promise last night at the old census building. This will be "Washington City Tenpin League night" though four duckpin quints also are to be in competition.

The Commissioners will roll on alley 5, Interior on alley 6, Agriculture on alley 7, Pioneers on alley 8, Bureau on alley 9, Acme on alley 10, Fletcher Nabobs on alley 11 and Royals No. 2 on alley 12. In the duckpin sets the Capitol Hills will be on alley 1, Government Printing Office on alley 2, R. P. Andrews on alley 3 and the Washington Base Ball Club on alley 4. The rolling of the members of the Nationals on alley 4 will be of particular interest, not only because of the prominence of the players, but that several of them are exceptionally good bowlers.

In connection with the rolling of the team representing the Nationals, a rather good story is told of how its new member, Jamieson, came to get his berth. While the club was at a Club lottessville it became known that Jamieson was quite a pin speller, as one night he toppled the maples in a manner which caused new marks to be set for that town. Jamieson was wanted in the line-up of the ball club team, but it could not be decided whether to drop to make room for him. Finally, George McBride determined that the best thing to do would be to write the names of the five players on slips of paper, place them in a hat and let the draw of a name decide the player to be dropped. Accordingly, this was done, and "Happy" Williams' name was on the slip. Somebody, out of curiosity, drew again, then again, and after all the slips had been examined it was found that Williams' name had been written on every one. And Williams has not yet convinced himself as to who hatched the plot to make it a "cinch" against him, and still is figuring on what his teammates opinion of him as a bowler is.

Only one bowler from another city will be on the board tonight, John J. Donovan of Syracuse. He is secretary of the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association, and will pair with Ernest Dulin in the candlepin doubles. Incidentally, this will be the first time that many of the local followers of the sport have seen candlepin rolled, and they will not get many more chances to watch that game, as the entries in the class are very limited.

The tournament opened last night shortly after 8 o'clock, with some of the most prominent men in the city throwing the first balls down the alleys. Things were first under way by P. Moran, president of the Chamber of Commerce, when he made an address in which he said that bowling was becoming more popular in the city, and that he expected it to be only a short time before the game would be one of the most prominent of all and the most prominent of indoor sports. Mr. Moran introduced W. F. Gude, president of the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association, who made a brief introductory speech, which he wound up by challenging every prominent man in the boxes to get out and roll one ball down the alleys in competition with him, thus officially opening the tournament.

Many came down and accepted Mr. Gude's challenge. Mr. Gude, though, proved himself to be actuated by chivalrous motives, as he rolled his ball, which was inlaid with silver and a present from P. B. Fletcher, off the alley. Mr. Gude never further than that, as he placed himself at the disadvantage of rolling from a sitting position—the floor was very slippery and the sitting position was possibly an accident. On the first ball rolled Howard S. Reeside, vice president American Security and Trust Company, toppled the most pins, knocking down eight. Mr. Gude, though, showed his nerve by coming right back, rolling again and equalling Mr. Reeside's score, and he did not sit down the second time, either.

Here are the men who rolled the first ball and the alleys on which they appeared:

W. F. Gude, national president of the A. C. B. A., on alley No. 1; Patrick T. Moran, president of the local tournament company, on alley No. 2; Corcoran, Thon, vice president of the American Security and Trust Company, on alley No. 3; Thomas Grant, secretary of the local tournament company, on alley No. 4; H. S. Reeside, vice president American Security and Trust Company, on alley No. 5; C. J. Bell, president of the American Security and Trust Company, on alley No. 6; E. J. Stellwagen, president of the Union Trust Company, on alley No. 7; Louis Brownlow, Commissioner of the District of Columbia, on alley No. 8; Oliver P. Newman, Commissioner of the District of Columbia, on alley No. 9; Maj. Raymond Pullman, superintendent of the metropolitan police, on alley No. 10; C. J. Gockler, president of the District National Bank, on alley No. 11; and Thomas Brannan, chief clerk to President Wilson, and delegate from the White House, on alley No. 12.

Howard S. Reeside proved that he had real interest in the American Security and Trust Company, as he went down and sat on the bench with the players—it was the same live spirit that he used to show in the base ball team when the Bankers were sweeping the boards in the amateur leagues.

It might be mentioned, too, that the Security team put up a fine appearance on the floor, every man being garbed in a white shirt, white trousers and white shoes. The suits were made especially for the occasion. Practical ly all the teams had on uniform shirts, with the name of the bank they represented on the fronts and backs. All the teams presented a fine appearance.

Fletcher's Nabobs, one of the teams which will roll tonight, will be composed of some of the most prominent men in the city. All are to roll in evening clothes.

W. F. Gude received telegrams last night from George Chandler and M. B. Smith, president and vice president of the Boston Chapter of the A. C. B. A., wishing the tournament success. The tenpin teams of the A. C. B. A. are the same, that Boston was back of the tourney and wished it all kinds of good luck and success.

The actual bowling last night was below the average. None of the players was rolled as well as usual, the highest score recorded being below 1,000. It is needless to say that these marks are not going to stand very long.

The Diamond team of Hagerstown got the best set of the night, knocking down 1,470 pins in the Departmental No. 2 club with the team standing, with a count of 1,460. Very few high sets were recorded by any of the players.

Halley expressed the sentiments of all in this way:

"The opening is all that we had looked for. As a matter of fact, the crowd present exceeded our expectations, and never before in my life have I seen even near so many persons gathered in Washington to watch bowling contests. And when the crack bowlers of the north begin to line up on the alleys I believe the crowds will increase. You know that fellows like Paul Poehler, Gendler and Smith can almost make the balls talk, so well do they have them under control. It's a treat to watch the remarkable accuracy those fellows attain. If some of them miss a pin it is usually by accident. Everything has moved smoothly so far, and it seems that we are going to have a very successful affair."

"Every person with whom I have talked has not hesitated to express an opinion optimistic in the extreme. Particularly is this true of Thomas G. Jones, president of the Philadelphia Chapter of the A. C. B. A., who said he was extremely surprised to find bowling in such a highly developed state in Washington."

The bowling will begin today at 5 o'clock instead of 3:30, as previously scheduled.

George Cox, former president of the local city association and for years one of the live spirits in the tournaments, was on the job last night. George kept things moving in the right way and showed his adaptability by handling with expediency every situation that came up.

Indian

You Must Actually Handle the 1916 Indian—study it for yourself—ride it—before you can appreciate why we claim it is wonderful!

You must see it verify our claim—see any stock model actually go through its extraordinary performances.

You must get a demonstration of the new Indian Powerplus motor. That will give you a better and more convincing idea of Twin Cylinder efficiency than a million words could give you.

Go right outdoors with it. Note how clean it is—how slight. Listen to its velvety action while it does 70 miles an hour right before your eyes!

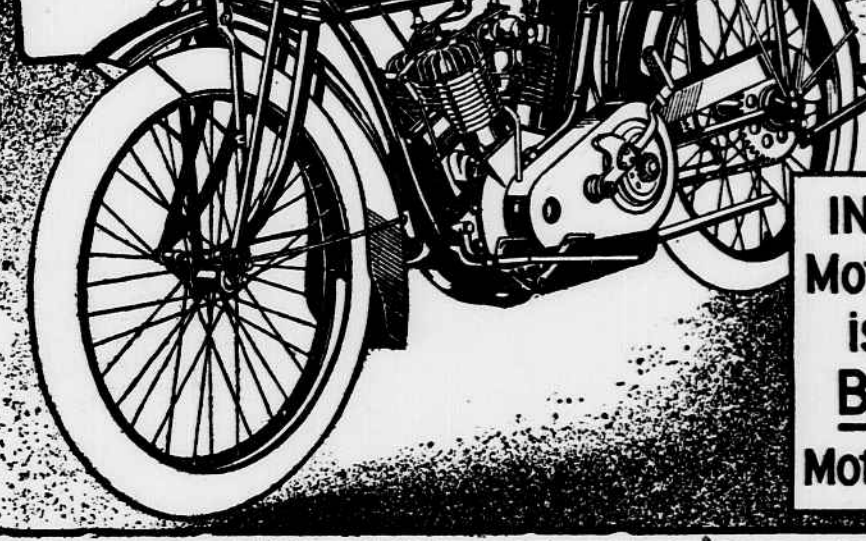

Watch it skim up a hill with an ease that defies duplication. The Los Angeles Police Department wanted 37 1916 Indians with Powerplus motor—IF they proved up to required speed and efficiency.

Every one of the 37 stock machines showed a speed of at least 75 miles an hour—with a single adjustment before or after the test!

That's why we say the Indian is wonderful. We claim the legitimate use of the word, and the Indian never fails to make good our claim.

We repeat—see this wonderful machine with its wonderful Powerplus motor. Ask for an actual performance.
